OLDFIED STRUCK BY AUTO; IS DYING

CHICAGO, July 28.—Barney Oldfield, the veteran automobile driver, was run over and probably fatally hurt by Michigan avenue, near Fifteenth street, to-day by an automobile. He was taken into St. Luke's Hospital, in front of which the accident occurred. At the hospital it was said he probably would die.

Oldfield was standing at the curb talking to Louis Strang, the automobile driver, and Homer George, when he started to walk across the avenue. The automobile struck him and ran over him. The name of the driver of the auto was not known.

MOORS ROTTED THE WISCONSIN

TO MADISON, July 20.—After thirteen hours of continued fighting a force of 115 French troops, about 2,000 of the French troops, routed an overwhelming number of Marquette Indians today and left heavy casualties on both sides. Hundreds of the Moors were killed.

The final effort of the Moors came in the form of a flank attack on the Spanish and British positions. The Moors were on the left, however, and after the Marquette had been repulsed vigorously the French were killed about half of the number of a battery they had attempted to surround. The Moors were killed in great in large charge that the Moors withdrew from the field, leaving a great pile of captured arms and baggage.

PROVINCETOWN, July 20.—Typhoid fever, caused, it is thought, by ice cream from the city, is spreading among the soldiers on the battlement Wisconsin in the North Atlantic. Several of the soldiers have been taken to the hospital.

While details are not given out, it is reported that the first lot of troops came when the men of the Wisconsin were not allowed the same shore leave on Sunday as the other regiments. It is thought that from the first lot, it is still at least a few days before the epidemic will become more and more severe.

Captain John Bradley, who was in charge of the cutter, was nearly as badly hurt as was just to reach the tug. Captain William Pascoe of the Calumet had been at the last time picked up after Johnston, his daughter and Logan, who all were unscathed.

Members of the crew were swimming around in the water and were rescued by the tug. The Calumet was then hurried to the Battery in search of physicians.

Menace to Navigation.

A vast quantity of wreckage floated in the harbor, and the tug was shown out by the explosion, as she took on a list. A large quantity of heavy cargo went to the bottom, and the tug was so badly damaged that the stevedores were hindered. The Merritt & Co. tug was also damaged, and the tug was sent to the scrap heap immediately and made preparations to raise the cargo. It is thought that the tug will be raised, and the cargo will not be raised. As the tug was so badly damaged, it is thought that the tug will be raised, and the cargo will not be raised.

GOVERNORS FAVOR MUCK ACCEPTANCE OF INCOME TAX LAW

The following telegram was sent to the Governor of the several States by the Boston American:

What action, in your opinion, will your State take regarding income tax amendment to Constitution which the Senate and House have now almost unanimously voted to submit to the several States? Answer prepared:

Governors of twenty three States have replied. Of these, sixteen favor the proposition and seven are non-committal or have not sounded public or legislative sentiment. The replies received follow:

FLORIDA—Albert W. Gilchrist, D.—In my opinion, by practically unanimous vote, the Legislature will ratify the proposed income tax Constitutional amendment.

MONTANA—Edwin L. Norris, D.—In my opinion, Montana will promptly ratify an income tax amendment, whether the question be submitted to the Legislature or to the people direct.

NEVADA—D. S. Dickerson, D.—In my judgment, sentiment of this State in favorable to an income tax. I have no doubt that the Legislature will ratify the proposed amendment authorizing a tax on incomes.

UTAH—William Spry, R.—I am inclined to think that the income tax amendment will not meet with great favor in Utah. The matter has been before the people of the nation once before and, as I remember it, it did not meet with special favor. Because of this, I have no reason to believe that the people of Utah will change their minds. Personally, I am not an advocate of the idea.

COLORADO—J. F. Shafroth, D.—In my judgment, the Legislature of Colorado will unanimously ratify the proposed amendment to the Constitution relating to the income tax.

IDaho—J. H. Brady, R.—Although an income tax is not a vital question in Idaho at present, owing to the fact that very few citizens of this State have assumed great fortunes, I am, nevertheless, in favor of the amendment, and would support it, if it were raised as an issue here. The comments by the press have been almost universally favorable, and I am glad to see an expression by the people in favor of the amendment. Any opinion at this time would be based on the question.

GEORGIA—Joseph M. Brown, D.—Public opinion has not yet been sounded in Georgia on the income tax amendment.

RHODE ISLAND—J. A. Pothier, R.—Impossible to forecast action on the Rhode Island Legislature on the income tax measure, as there are large interests in this State which might line up on both sides of the question. Any opinion at this time would be based on the question.

MISSISSIPPI—E. F. Noel, D.—The Mississippi Legislature will overwhelmingly adopt the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution, I am sure.

KANSAS—W. R. Stubbs, R.—So far as I have been able to consult with the members of the Kansas Legislature and to gather the public opinion of Kansas, the income tax amendment will be promptly ratified whenever the Legislature meets next January.

INDIANA—Thomas R. Marshall, D.—In my opinion the Indiana Legislature will ratify the income tax amendment to the Constitution.

NORTH DAKOTA—John Burke, D.—In my opinion North Dakota will vote to adopt the amendment to the Constitution for an income tax.

MINNESOTA—John A. Johnson, D.—In my opinion Minnesota is almost sure to endorse the proposed income tax amendment. A proposition to submit the question to a referendum vote of the people is now being discussed between us and the leaders of the two houses of the Legislature, with some prospects that affirmative action will be taken.

KENTUCKY—Augustus P. Wilson, R.—I do not know what action the General Assembly is regarding the income tax amendment to the Constitution. There has been little or no general discussion of the subject, and I have not talked about it with any member of the General Assembly. Much more must be said.

VIRGINIA—Claude A. Swanson, D.—Personally, I am heartily in favor of the income tax amendment, which the Senate and House have voted to submit to the several States. I believe it is a good move in the right direction. I have no right to speak for the coming Legislature, but in my opinion the sentiment in the State in favor of the proposed amendment is so strong that there will be no question about the passage of such a measure if it is presented in the Legislature. The question has been under consideration in Virginia in one form or another for some time. The amendment, if properly drawn, undoubtedly would command a large majority, and that in my opinion it will meet with the approval of the great majority of the people of the State.

WYOMING—B. B. Brooks, R.—The proposed income tax amendment is little discussed here. Difficult to forecast State's action.

ILLINOIS—Charles S. Deneen, R.—I am not able to forecast the views of the members of the Illinois General Assembly regarding the income tax amendment to the Constitution.

MISSOURI—H. S. Hadley, R.—As the question of an income tax has not been the subject of general discussion in this State, I do not feel sufficiently well informed to answer your inquiry.

OREGON—Frank W. W. Brooks, R.—It is impossible to forecast what action Oregon will take upon the income tax amendment. Probably under any referendum system, it will be submitted to the people for determination.

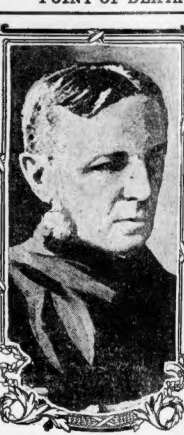

WASHINGTON—Governor May.—There has been no discussion in this State regarding the income tax amendment, hence I do not care to predict the action of the Legislature.

IOWA—B. F. Carroll, R.—Without expressing an opinion as to the merits of an income tax, I am inclined to think that the amendment is intended to make the laying of such a tax possible. That is all the Iowa Legislature will be asked to pass on, and it is my opinion that the amendment will be adopted.

OKLAHOMA—C. N. Haskell, D.—I compliment the President for having gone far enough in the waste basket of his predecessor and found a sensible proposition. That is an Oklahoma proposition, and the voters will have to indicate in or out, and it is my opinion that the amendment will be adopted.

TEXAS—T. M. Campbell, D.—I favor an income tax.

The doctor's daughter, Margaret Huntington, is visiting near the ocean in the hospital, and is waiting for the doctor's death. Dr. Huntington has been suffering from a long illness, and his death is expected within a few days.

EXPENSIVE LID SLAMMED ON THE BREAKFAST HARAGANSETT

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Mrs. Jessie Kerner, who was found dead in her room at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York, was solved today. It was found that she had slipped from the balcony of her room, which was on the eighth floor, and had fallen into the water below. The coroner's jury has returned a verdict of accidental death.

Mrs. Kerner's death was a tragedy for her family. She was a well-known social figure in New York, and her death has caused much speculation. The police are now investigating the circumstances of the death, and it is expected that a full report will be given in a few days.

There is indignation among the regular police because the matter has been taken out of their hands. It was stated at the meeting of the Police Board that the matter should have been handled by the regular police, but it was decided to refer it to the coroner's jury.

For People Who Do Things

Whether you stand at your work, or walk to your work, they reduce the strain on your nerves and lessen the fatigue at night.

Listen: Every bit of delicate machinery that man produces carries with it springs, ball bearings, shock absorbers, rubber tires and such like to lessen the wear and tear

Yet man, the inventor of things, places a bit of hard leather beneath his heels, and stamps his way along asphalt walks with never a thought for his own well-balanced self. To be consistent, if you put a shock absorber on your automobile to save it

O'Sullivan's Live Rubber Heels cost 50 cents, and wear twice as long as leather. There are no other heels of live rubber, nor other real rubber heels, although there are some so called. They cost as much, and they are worth it.

O'Sullivan's Heels of Live Rubber are sold by shoe dealers everywhere.
Order by the name and refuse substitutes.

BERLIN, July 20.—American and American citizens were gripped at a meeting of the city's top-notch aristocrats in Berlin last night. The German shareholders in the Cottonwood Creek Copper Company, and the admiral and assembled to listen to a proposed compromise of their interests by the president of the company, Noah H. Russell, who was represented by Charles Dunham of New York.

The list of those present included the best known names in German military and court society. Prince Henry XXIV of Prussia sat in proxy.

Dunham's statement of the progress of the case since the German invasion of Huguibon was punctuated with sneers and jeers. Baron von Hatzfeldt, a Prussian nobleman, interrupted to say he had been in America that to foreigner who knew the American people and their feelings better he must be the wife of General Hechberg, married the German.

Dr. Haug, a prominent German physician, who said he had been in the Cottonwood sheds, reminded his aristocratic fellow guests that the late Cottonwood sheds were altogether clean, as they had all signed a statement attesting to the hope of getting back to one another in the house of the president, and decided against their litigation.

PRESS THE INCOME TAX ALL ALONG THE LINE!

THE BOSTON AMERICAN favors, and will strive to secure at the earliest possible day, the constitutional amendment providing for a national tax upon personal incomes from whatever source derived.

This will be the most important issue before the country in the next year.

Under a close vote of 5 to 4, the Supreme Court, in 1895, declared against the constitutionality of this tax.

Wherefore, the President and the Sixty-first Congress under this decision have expressed an unwillingness to enact an Income Tax at the present time, and have submitted to the States as a constitutional amendment the right of future Congresses to do so.

Upon the question of submitting this amendment the American Senate, without a dissenting vote among its ninety-one members, voted aye.

Upon this question in the House of 395 Representatives only fourteen members voted against it.

Upon this question the President of the United States is thrice and irrevocably committed to approval. The Income Tax is the backbone of the English budget. It is a vigorous part of Germany's economic life. France has it under consideration that will inevitably result in adoption. It is the spirit of this progressive age. If these older Governments, whose institutions are less opposed to PRIVILEGE than ours, adopt this just and patriotic measure, then our democracy must suffer the stigma of failure in measuring up to the standards of monarchy in the Old World.

So that the time has come for the people and those who represent them to act in the interest of just and equal taxation.

The omnipotence of public opinion must bestir itself to crystallize sentiment into law.

The legislators of the several States must be instructed by their constituents to vote in approval of the amendment.

The Governors of the several States must give the weight of their advocacy to the affirmative votes of the State assemblies.

The press that stands behind the measure must be vigorous and persistent in support.

And the people in the cities and in the counties, who are at once the sovereigns and the sufferers, must make themselves so heard and felt that there will be no doubt of the result.

For the Income Tax is the natural tax and the just tax. It is the only fair way to equalize taxation among all classes of our citizenship.

It is the only way to make all classes bear their just share in the burden of the Government.

IT IS NOT A CLASS TAX, BUT THE OPPOSITE OF A CLASS TAX.

It is in no sense a measure levied at the pockets of the rich.

It is a clear, straight way, and the very best way to equalize conditions of taxation between the rich and the poor.

The poor cannot avoid taxation. They have no refuge or escape from supporting the Government even if they cared to do so. They are taxed for everything they own or use or buy, and they pay their taxes always.

It is different with the rich. By loopholes of privilege or by connivance of unequal laws they evade taxation. It is in the POWER OF THE RICH to place their ample and increasing capital in a dozen channels in which it may flow by and BEYOND THE TAX GATHERER'S GRASP, and they laugh at the demands of the State. In interest-paying bonds of nation, State or municipality they escape taxation. In foreign investments they may defy the appeal of this Government.

The AMERICAN has in mind a citizen who has invested his money in government and city bonds. From this investment he derives a safe and certain income of $25,000 every year. Upon this income he lives in luxury. As a citizen he enjoys all the benefits of this great city and country. Police protection is his. The postal facilities of the Government, the machinery of the courts, the manifold protection of the Government are all invoked for his comfort and advantage. And when, every Summer, he sails in luxury for his vacation across the seas, as a citizen of this country he carries from the State Department at Washington, and from national, State and city officials, letters of introduction which commend him to the consideration and distinct attention of foreign governments and officials—all as a citizen of a country to whose national, State and city governments this beneficiary of all our system does not pay one dollar of this income in reciprocal help and support.

Meanwhile the coachman who drives his horses, the chauffeur who runs his machine, the butler in his pantry or the cook in his kitchen fronts the tax gatherer, who gathers a percentage of all his possessions, as regular and remorseless as death.

It is the mission of the Income Tax to make the man of $25,000 a year pay his proportionate share of the burdens of government along with his butler and butcher and coachman, who now bear the burden on every element of their property.

Under the provisions of a wise Income Tax men of this privileged type must also tell the truth as to their possessions, and are not allowed to evade the law. In one case the value of an inherited estate as found by a first and careless appraisal was only $21,500.00. A more careful and diligent investigation showed the inheritance to be worth easily $5,002,732.00.

The AMERICAN has for years earnestly advocated an Income Tax and an inheritance tax. If we lend our greater advocacy here to the Income Tax it is both because the Income Tax is an imminent issue and because the existence of an inheritance tax in so many States, while not an argument against that tax, is a reason for pressing the general Government Income Tax at this time.

We are fighting this battle in a just and necessary cause. We are fighting for the Income Tax because it is the clear and even way to justice and equality.

We are fighting as a friend of the Government and of the people—all the people—rich and poor.

And we are fighting as an unswerving and implacable foe to that PRIVILEGE which is the enemy of the people and which defies the entire spirit of popular government.

The AMERICAN urges a prompt and definite action by the legislatures of the several States.

The Income Tax must be made into an organic law.

You Couldn't Fool This Man with Microbes

He's in His Grave—A Warning to Others That Laugh at Microbes

Copyright, 1909, by American Medical Association have a sort of theory that they will die when our time comes, as they put it, and that all the fussing about disease germs is wasted.

Until very recently a man in a certain country town had the notion that the germ theory is all nonsense. He hasn't that notion any more, for it killed him.

The man was fifty years old. He lived in a district where the germ of anthrax had been killing cattle. He said it was all nonsense to talk about a germ, and he skinned the cows that had died.

He was warned to be careful, and especially to keep the fresh hides of the dead cows away from any part of his body that might be scratched and allow the germ to enter.

To show his great contempt of "the germ theory," this unfortunate, ignorant man wrapped one of the fresh hides around his neck and carried it into the barn.

Through time slight wound in the neck the bacilli of germs of anthrax, invisible to the eye of a man who did not believe in science, got into his blood. His face and throat began to swell shortly, and he was dead in five days, after suffering great agony.

Every human being, and especially mothers and fathers, should understand distinctly that the great enemy of man is the invisible microbe or bacillus, the germ of disease.

These germs are infinitely more dangerous than tigers, or lions, or poisonous reptiles. They are in milk until it is drunk.

They are carried on the spongy feet of flies that light on the food, or on the faces of children. They are blown about in the wind of dirty streets—that alone accounts partly for the high death rate among children in cities.

It isn't necessary to become hysterically anxious, but it is necessary to be careful. Healthy children and grown people may take certain disease germs into their systems. The phages, or white corpuscles in the blood, fight against these disease germs, and often conquer, just as the frontiersman might often conquer in his fight with wolves.

But, when the system is reduced in vigor, the germ is too strong for the resisting power in the blood, and then come disease and death.

Keep up your health, first of all, with sleep, good, sufficient food, and plenty of fresh air.

Keep the enemy, deadly foe, invisible to the eye, but venomous, complicated—the enemy that men will be fighting still, long years from now, when all the big, dangerous animals shall be only memories—in subjection.

Fight the germs of disease, and remember that the weapons with which to destroy them are CLEANLINESS, SUNLIGHT, FRESH AIR AND HEALTHY BLOOD.
